DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-7 are pending in the application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

1. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The enablement of the injection preparation of fasudil at a pH of 5.5 or less is enabled. The highly acidic nature of a compound with a pH of 1, 1.5, etc. would be undesirable in an injection. The presence of pH levels in the body that are low can result in cell damage. The applicants have failed to provide working examples to exhibit the benefit of fasudil injections where the pH is in the lower acid range such as 1, 1.5, etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) based upon a public use or sale of the invention. Fasudil was available in 2003 from Asahi Kasei as an injectable formulation under the trademark name of Eri[™]. The Merck index further indicates that fasudil is soluble in water up to 2×10^{-2} M at pH 5-7 (The Merck Index 12th edition).

An issue of public use or on sale activity has been raised in this application. In order for the examiner to properly consider patentability of the claimed invention under 35 U.S.C. 102(b), additional information regarding this issue is required as follows: the financial records for Eri[™] (fasudil formulated for injection) by Asahi Kasei in 2003 as set forth on pages 43 and 44.

Applicant is reminded that failure to fully reply to this requirement for information will result in a holding of abandonment.
